

6 Bath & Body Works products

- Twilight Woods eau de toilette, $29.50
- Twilight Woods bubble bath, $12
- Twilight Woods limited edition foaming shower mousse, $14
- Japanese Cherry Blossom body lotion, $10.50

All at Bath & Body Works stores

Love it or hate it, you know some well-intentioned auntie of yours will give you a basket full of Bath & Body Works items for Christmas. If you can, steer her past the Plumeria to the new Twilight Woods signature collection (Robert Pattinson not included). An eau de toilette, bubble bath, shower mousse, done. For a stocking stuffer, try the Japanese Cherry Blossom body lotion, an Allure magazine top pick.

7 Urban Decay cosmetics

- Urban Decay Apocalyptic Nail Kit, $26
- Urban Decay Show Pony Shadow Box, $30
- Urban Decay Smoke Out Kit, $34

All at Sephora or urbandecay.com

Edgy, punk Urban Decay lives for the smoky eye. The cosmetics line's Smoke Out Kit comes with all the tools, products and instructions you need to get that dark Taylor Momsen look—or add in one of the bright Show Pony Shadow Box colors to really wow. Give your nails the VIP treatment with the Apocalyptic Nail Kit, home to seven mini-bottles of old favorites such as Fbomb and Big Bang, and new shades such as Gunmetal. Bonus: All the kits come in the artsy packaging Urban Decay does best.

5 Glory for Girls Basics

$42 at PB Teen,
2111 N. Clybourn Ave.,
or gloryforgirls.com

A starter kit for this new, all-natural skin care line would make a great gift for your teenage sis—or any of your friends who like no fuss (and no breakouts) when it comes to what they slather on their face. This package comes with Glory's everyday face and body lotion, body wash and SPF 17 sunscreen. Loaded with natural ingredients such as chamomile, vitamin E and shea butter, Glory's products are biodegradable and made in the U.S. Glorious.
